Writing Workshop: Units of Study Grades K-8

In this three-day institute, participants will learn the rationale to implement a comprehensive, research-based approach to writing workshop.

- Learn strategies to teach opinion/argument, information, and narrative writing with increasing complexity and sophistication
- Deepen understanding of the California Writing Standards
- Explore the use of mentor texts to foster a strong reading/writing connection
- Discover practices that create opportunities for your students to write across the curriculum

Breakout sessions focusing on writing instruction in grades K-2, and 3-8 will be included during the institute.

Each participant will receive or supply their own Units of Study for Writing in Opinion/Argument, Information, and Narrative Writing kit for their grade level by Lucy Calkins and Colleagues of the Teachers College Reading and Writing Project, Columbia University. This is a year-long curriculum designed to help teachers fully implement the California Writing Standards.

Note: Due to the acquisition of materials for this workshop, registration will close 30 days prior to the first day of the workshop.
