

Carter

Grade: 12

School: Central Valley Christian
High School, Central Valley
Christian

Pillar: Citizenship

Comment: Coach Hackbarth says, “Carter exemplifies the essential elements of character building and ethics in sports. According to the Visalia Downtown Kiwanis Club, these elements are trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, fairness, caring, and citizenship. Carter has excelled in both basketball and as school president while proving himself to be a passionate and caring leader among not only his peers and teammates, but for the entire school community. Carter is great at making everyone around him better. His teammates trust that he is present for them whether on the court or in the classroom. He has built a high level of respect in his school community not just because he talks the talk, but he walks the walk. He is a wonderfully well-rounded and grounded individual. I believe that he will be as successful in life as he is at Central Valley Christian High School and in this community.”
